POLICE DEPARTMENT IMPLEMENTS
NEW POLICE-TO-CITIZEN WEBSITE

WAKE FOREST, NC – December 9, 2011 – The Wake Forest Police Department has implemented SunGard Public Sector's OSSI Police-to-Citizen (P2C). Accessible at http://p2c.wakeforestnc.gov/p2c, P2C permits citizens to view and map police records, view daily bulletins, search for specific incidents, and access arrest records, including mug shots.

"The P2C system entirely changes the way we are able to share information," said Police Chief Jeff Leonard. "We are very excited about the benefits it offers both our citizens and the police department," said Police Chief Jeff Leonard.

Many reports which previously required a visit to the police department can now be obtained from any computer connected to the Internet saving fuel and time for citizens. P2C also saves the department money by providing information directly to citizens rather than having it prepared by administrative staff.

Incidents and arrests that are considered public records may be searched by name, date, or location. After a result is returned, users may then plot the results on a map.

The Wake Forest P2C homepage will be updated regularly with slide shows featuring missing persons and most wanted photographs, aiding the department's efforts to keep the community safe and well-informed.
